

Newham & District Landcare Group

Special presentation

Indigenous plant and land use in Victoria

Speaker: Dr Beth Gott, Monash University

Dr. Gott is an ethnobotanist who specialises in the relationship between Aboriginal people and plants, and is widely published.

This is an opportunity to learn how plants were traditionally used by the Indigenous people of south-eastern Australia, for food, medicine, fibre, tools ..., and how biodiversity was created by Aboriginal management of land with fire.

When: Friday 10th May
Time: 7 for 7.30pm
Cost: Free to members. Gold coin donation for non-members. Supper provided
Where: Newham Mechanics Institute
1292 Rochford Road, Newham

For more information contact Helen Scott from the Newham and District Landcare Group on 5427 4900

<http://home.vicnet.net.au/~newhamlc/>